UPLAND, SAN BERNARDINO COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1927.

Just a Little of This & That By W. E. W.

He Slept
Met a chap the other day who went to see "The Miracle," and his description of it was certainly anything but complimentary. "But my father-in-law certainly did enjoy it. He slept soundly for three hours."

Broke Up
Editor Arthur Brown of the San Bernardino Evening Telegram is all broken up over the fact that he failed to get to church Sunday morning. Brown states that Carrie Jacobs Bond spoke eloquently in a wistaria colored suit with toque to match. The pastor used as his theme, "Yet Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these," and the choir sang as a concluding number, "The End of a Perfect Day."

Appreciation
John Steven McGroarty gave to California the Mission Play and although the play has gone through years of struggle, it will soon be in its new home at San Gabriel, provided by several wealthy men of the south. At the opening night supporters of the play throughout the years will be among those present and for their seats they will have paid anywhere from $100 to $1000. They didn't pay that price for the mere privilege of witnessing that production, but they paid it because they appreciated the efforts of John McGroarty; they paid it because they appreciated the work of the men who provided the new home for the Mission Play.

Right here in Upland we have a like condition. For many years women of our city have been talking of building a club house and you and I—that is a lot of us—didn't realize that this town really needed a public building. Since its completion those who scoffed at the idea can see the vision of the members of the Woman's Club who have striven for many years to accomplish just what has been completed within the past few weeks.

The need of that building and the niche that it is filling in our life could not be more forcibly demonstrated than last night when two hundred and three sat down to the annual dinner of the Upland Chamber of Commerce and there listened to Hugh Pomeroy advise us to pave the way and prepare for a much greater growth throughout Southern California.

A long time ago the women of our city were paving the way to give to us this club building and it's time that we who have had little to do with its erection, show our appreciation by assisting the women to complete paying for the house. The club has certain financial plans they'd like to carry out and let's help them to do it for they gave us something we didn't know we needed and from day to day, year to year it is going to add much to the community life of the city.

A Glorious Feeling
It's a grand and glorious feeling to have folks come to see you who used to know you when you were a kid.

They can remember when you caught cold and didn't have a handkerchief; they can remember when you left your wagon over on their lawn; they can remember when you broke a window light in their house; they can remember all the damphool things that you did when you were fifteen—yet the years have rolled on and they have forgiven you the sins of your youth and just came to see you.

Life holds a lot of joys and sorrows, but to sit down with former friends and neighbors and just visit of the old days; hear of the failures and successes of school mates; learn of the accomplishments of some bird you didn't think ever would amount to anything; hear of the bad luck that seemed determined to follow those who you thought would rank high in the annals of fame—all that makes for interest in life for in our youth the road ahead

MEXICAN TIPICA ORCHESTRA HERE MONDAY NIGHT

OFFICIAL ORCHESTRA OF EX-PRESIDENT OBREGON IS UNSURPASSED

Large Marimba Band and Eight Soloists Will Be Features of Concert—Claim "Nothing Like It in the World"

* Students of Chaffey and people of the Chaffey community are to have the rare opportunity of hearing one of the most unique musical organizations that has ever appeared in the Chaffey Auditorium when the Tipica Orchestra of Mexico presents a concert at 8:15 next Monday evening, February 14th. The matinee that was announced has been abandoned and only the evening performance will be given.

The Mexican Tipica Orchestra is unlike any other organization of musicians in the world, which is one reason for its immensely successful tourist season through the western part of the United States. This great orchestra was organized in 1924-25, and was chosen by Alvaro Obregon, then President of Mexico, as his official musical organization.

The charm of the Tipica Orchestra of Mexico is not alone in the entrancing manner with which it plays the typical music of Mexico and Spain. Each member of the organization is dressed in the picturesque "Charro" costume with its colorful "serapes" and jackets make up a picture as once romantic and colorful.

Each member of the orchestra while a native Mexican plainsman of natural musical talent, was chosen because he has shown unusual musical ability while in the National Conservatory of Music of Mexico. Soloists include six Marin brothers who play the Marimba, the instrument which is so truly typical of tropical America, and Samuel Pedraza, lyric tenor, whose voice thrilled thousands last season.

The prices for this very wonderful concert will be 50 cents for students, 75 cents and $1.00 for outsiders. Reserve seats went on sale yesterday at Chaffey Bookstore, Mac's in Upland and Ford Brothers Music Store in Ontario. No one in Chaffey community can afford to miss this wonderful opportunity.

PRINCIPAL HILL GOES EAST TO CONVENTION

Principal Merton E. Hill of Chaffey Union High School leaves here Thursday for the east where he will attend a convention of the National Association of High School Principals which is to be held in St. Louis February 24th, 25th and 26th.

Mr. Hill appears on the program and will speak on the subject, "The Place of the Junior College in Our Educational System."

While in the east Principal Hill will visit the four Junior Colleges of Illinois; the Crane Junior College of Chicago; the University of Chicago High School; the Joliet High School and Junior College. Returning Mr. Hill will visit the Denver High School and the high school at Lincoln, Nebraska.

At Washington, D. C., Mr. Hill will do some research work for his class in U. S. Government. He will remain there for one week.

CHECK ARTIST ARRESTED IN ONTARIO WEDNESDAY

The members of the Business Men's Association can rejoice over the fact that the warning that went out over their Chain call system regarding a certain check artist working in Ontario Wednesday evening, has been arrested by Ontario officers, according to information received today.

This should certainly be a warning to other bad check men to lay off from passing their cold paper on merchants of Upland and Ontario.

FRIEDA PEYCKE HERE TONIGHT

With the announcement made recently by members of the Frances Paul Girls that they would sponsor Miss Frieda Peycke, nationally known artist, in a musical program, lovers of fine entertainment were delighted and it is a safe prediction that the Upland Woman's Club house will be crowded to its capacity this evening.

Miss Peycke needs no introduction to the people of this community, where she has appeared on two previous occasions, and those who heard this clever artist before are prepared to again enjoy to the fullest the many charming numbers that she will present, while those who have never heard her have a treat in store for them. Frieda Peycke is not only known for her musical interpretations of poems and songs but she is also a composer of note, and many of the gems she offers are her own compositions. Following is the program for this evening's entertainment:

"Thanksgiving Guests" Words by L. H. Martin.

"Dame Fashion" Words by James W. Foley.

"Go Get It" words by James W. Foley.

"Oh, Henry, What Is It?" words by James W. Foley.

"A Barnyard Fable," words by Maude Powell.

"If You Want to Live," Anonymous.

"Watch the Corners of Your Mouth," Anonymous.

The world's greatest heritages, as expressed in "The Last Will," by Williston Fish, with musical setting by Miss Frieda Peycke.

"O'er and O'er," words by James Montague.

"What the Boy Said," words by Inez T. Tribitt.

"Somedays," words by Rose Fleyman.

"The Canary," words by Rose Fleyman.

"When Music, Heavenly Maid, Was Young," words by Arthur Guiterman.

"A Boy's Dad," (first time), words by Mary O'Hara.

"The Delusion of Ghosts," words by James W. Foley.

CHRISTIAN IDEAL OF A HAPPY HOME

Fifty-eight Years, Ten Years, and Three Months of Wedded Life To Be Described At Church Meeting

Realizing that the facts are giving less and less encouragement to happy homes in Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties, and to the highest social ideals for the family, the pastor of the Upland Methodist Episcopal Church, Rev. Gross, W. Alexander, has prepared a program in exaltation of the Christian ideal of a happy home.

Sunday night at the hour of Public Worship there will be a celebration which will aim to turn the eyes of youth away from cheap sentiment and low humor and issue a challenge to the higher things of comradeship and happiness. St. Valentine, beloved of youth, will be honored by a program of intense human interest.

In lieu of a conventional sermon by the pastor on "home," a delightful couple, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Post, who have been married fifty-eight years, will give their experiences in line with the Christian secret of wedded bliss.

A bride of ten years, Mrs. Ruth Stickney, and a groom of three months, Mr. Lee Bigley, who are also members of this church, will maintain the truth of the matter as to whether or not marriage is a failure. Miss Ethel Olson, a Chaffey Union high school girl, and William Blumenstock, a Pomona College boy, will tell the popular ideal of modern Christian youth concerning a perfect mate.

These two last addresses will be based upon a number of letters written to the pastor by young people of the Epworth Leagues. As a conclusion Mrs. Robert M. Candlish, who with her husband has proven the success of marriage for forty-three years, will

HARPER SPEAKS TO MEMBERS OF SERVICE CLUB

C. C. Harper of Ontario Tabernacle Brings An Interesting Theme To Club—Many Visitors Present

The Young Men's Service Club held its regular weekly meeting on Monday, the regular night. The occasion was to enable Cuo members to hear C. C. Harper, who could not speak on Monday night.

Floyd Chambers was chairman of entertainment and introduced Mr. Harper to the members and guests. Choosing as his subject "He serves his country best who serves his God best," Mr. Harper told why the group of business men, of which he is one, have left their businesses and are lecturing throughout the country. Lectures to the employees was the beginning of the Gospel teams which are now operating. Mr. Harper told of the pleasure he gains from his work. Testimonials from those who have heard him and benefited thereby are a great source of pleasure to him. Many times Mr. Harper has talked with those he lectured to on previous tours and their praise is very convincing as to the value of his tours.

The talk was very well received many of the members going to the Tabernacle in Ontario to hear his evening address.

Plans for the trip to Redlands, where the Club will be the guest of the Redlands Wise Men's Club next Tuesday, were discussed.

The Vision was published on time again and was crowded with snappy news.

Many guests and visitors from the other clubs were present, much to the enjoyment of the members. Those present were: Ray Wilson, Eino Steiner, Ed. Goldman, Robert Stone, R. C. Norton, T. M. Nichols, V. H. Wilson, F. Rogers, I. J. Linkey, P. H. McQuillen, Tracy Morris, Paul Adams, Ernest Mehl, Harley Jackson, Milton Kilever, Clifford Jellison, Walter Allen, Paul Dibble, C. C. Harper and W. E. O'Brien.

H. B. HARLOW IS ROTARY SPEAKER

H. B. Harlow, manager of the O. K. Exchange, was speaker at the Upland Rotary Club Tuesday, the program being under the direction of the Business Methods Committee, Gene Grier acting as chairman of the day.

Mr. Harlow told of some of his own experiences as manager of the O. K. Exchange and as an employee of the California Fruit Growers Exchange over a period of years.

"In my own business I have found that the Rotary slogan or motto, 'he profits most who serves best' has worked out and I call to mind one customer who bought our particular brand of fruit over a period of years and our confidence in him and his confidence in us was more than worth while."

"During that period we had but one complaint from this man and without an inspection of the car by our own men we made the adjustment as this customer desired."

"In a few days we received another letter from this man in which he stated that the percentage decay was not as great as his first examination indicated and he paid us a higher price for the fruit."

"It's such experiences as this that make business life worth while and I believe it is the endeavor of California Fruit Growers Exchange and all its subsidiary organizations to serve its customers faithfully at all times and under all conditions."

At the meeting next Tuesday, Cameron Beck of the New York Stock Exchange will be the speaker and the ladies are to be guests of the members of Rotary.

COUNTY GIVEN HUGE SHARE OF LICENSE FUNDS

$82,941.09 IS APPORTIONED SAN BERNARDINO FROM STATE COLLECTIONS

County Is In Seventh Place—35,764 County Vehicles Paid Registration Fee During the Past Year

A net apportionment of $82,941.09 was granted to San Bernardino County from the net total apportionment of $3,192,285.50 allotted to 58 California counties from $6,913,700.05 paid in 1926 for automobile license fees. These figures given out today by Frank G. Snook, chief of the state division of motor vehicles shows these fees were paid on registration of 1,641,551 motor vehicles in 1926, the largest in the history of California. The sum apportioned is the largest ever reported, exceeding the 1925 apportionment by $405,481.75.

Shows Prosperity
This apportionment indicates the unparalleled prosperity of California with a 11 per cent gain in motor vehicle registrations showing a net gain of 164,545 vehicles.

Of the huge sum which showed a divisional gain to every county, $3,721,414.55 was paid directly to the State Highway Commission for use on state highways, a similar amount was allotted to the 58 counties in the state with the exception of $529,129.06 deducted to pay salaries and expenses of traffic officers. This left a net total of $3,192,285.50 which was apportioned to the counties.

Los Angeles County with a total motor vehicle registration of 646,907 received the largest apportionment of $1,464,096.56. San Francisco County with a registration of 128,290 vehicles received a net apportionment of $292,089.45 in motor vehicle fees.

San Bernardino Seventh
Alameda County with a total registration of 129,644 vehicles received a net amount of $245,211.35.

Fresno County ranked fourth with a net allotment of $101,569.19 while San Bernardino County ranked seventh with a total net fee of $82,941.09 allotted for the registration of 35,764 motor vehicles.

Imperial County with 20,260 motor vehicles was granted a total allotment of $46,232.28 from which $23,818.63 was deducted for salaries of state traffic officers leaving a net allotment for roads of $22,413.65, ranking it twentieth in the state for net apportionment.

Riverside County ranked fifteenth in net apportionment with a total of $37,905.68. The total apportionment was $56,147.25 from which $18,241.57 was deducted for traffic officers salaries, leaving the net sum of $37,905.68.

Sacramento County Fifth
Sacramento County ranked sixth with $34,229. Santa Barbara County with a net apportionment of $83,810 with $79,880.84 net; Contra Costa County ninth with $61,445.90; Orange County tenth with $58,825.70; Kern County eleventh with $49,914.67; Tulare County twelfth with $43,886.72; Stanislaus County thirteenth with $41,343.36; Sonoma County fourteenth with $40,188.67.

Riverside County fifteenth with $37,905.68; Santa Barbara sixteenth with $32,516.14; Contra Costa County seventeenth with $30,336.30; Santa Cruz County eighteenth with $29,244.25; Ventura County nineteenth with $24,503.78 and Imperial County twentieth with $22,613.65.

HANGS HIMSELF AFTER WRITING IRONICAL NOTE

Names Tree From Which the Moose Dangled As "Dead Man's Tree"—Placards Place For Sightseers

Jacques Cartiere, a wanderer, hanged himself to a tree on the bank of the Mojave river near Oro Grande yesterday with an ironical sense of humor.

On the tree, where Cartiere's body was found dangling from a windowed noose, he nailed a sign, which read:

Notice to Campers
DEAD MAN'S TREE

This is the tree where a tramp hanged himself one time (camp grounds historical committee).

In showing campers around don't forget this point of interest. Posted by member of Boot Hill. Cards were made out especially for any local souvenir hounds there may be about. Not to be sold, grab one.

CAMP GROUND HISTORICAL COMMITTEE

Cartiere, a tramp wandering along on the desert, contemplated death with a smile. In his purse was found two notes, one a statement of his philosophy of life and death, and another note to a friend, Frederick Fontaine, of Buffalo, N. Y., asking that his body be buried in the desert.

Of life and death, Cartiere wrote:

"For he who believes in Jesus shall never know death. But shall live forever."

"I have lived and have loved, and I have no regrets."

In the second note, which was addressed to Fontaine, he admonished any one who found his body:

"If you can't find Fred, don't give my body to some damned medical institution."

Cartiere, despondent and tired of life for a reason that will perhaps never be known, had grown to love the desert with its gripping silence and peacefulness, and wanted to sleep there eternally.

To Fontaine he wrote:

"Plant me here in the desert somewhere, Frederick. It's cheaper and a better place to be planted than Buffalo."

Cartier's dying request—"plant me here in the desert somewhere"—may be granted. C. L. Rich, a Victorville undertaker, last night wired the chief of police at Buffalo asking that relatives, if any, be notified of Cartiere's act. On the notes, he gave his address as 1412 Niagara avenue, Buffalo.

Cartiere had been seen in the desert near Oro Grande for the past two days. Penniless, and apparently satisfied to drift along aimlessly alone, he had called at the Golden State Cement plant at Oro Grande Wednesday night, and asked to be permitted to sleep in the warehouse. His request was granted and early yesterday morning, Cartiere walked away, whistling down the highway.

Near Berger's service station Cartiere left the highway. Along the river bank, he sat down and wrote out his "notice to campers" of "dead man's tree," and his philosophical note. Then he climbed the tree, tied the cord noose around his neck and to a limb. Cartiere jumped out of the tree, and—

"For he who believes in Jesus shall never know death. But shall live forever."

BROTHERHOOD TO HEAR BLAKESLEE

The Men's Brotherhood of the Presbyterian church is to hear E. S. Blakeslee at its dinner meeting next Tuesday night in the church parlors when Mr. Blakeslee will tell of his European travels and show several reels of moving pictures which he took enroute.

Mr. Blakeslee has an interesting story and President Mason of the Men's Brotherhood urges all men of the church and community to attend.

LIONS ENTERTAIN BOY SCOUT TROOP

Upland Troop No. 1 and troop No. 3 were guests of the Lions club yesterday and provided the entertainment for all. About forty-four Boy Scouts with their masters and leaders met with the Lions and put on the program for their entertainment. "Pete" Guthrie and Ralph Almqvist, leaders of troop No. 1, brought their entire troop of twenty-two boys and Walter Galentine and Paul Schowalter, leaders of troop No. 3, had the same number and all present. "Bob" Henderson of the Old Baldy council and "Bob" Stone, one of the first organizers and leaders were there and spoke briefly of the aims of the organization as well as of their experiences with the boys.

Three boys from Troop No. 1 favored with the song "There's a Long, Long Nail a Grinding." Troop 3 put on a contest called a fuzstick contest to test which of two patrols made the best fuzstick with which to kindle fires. The judge of the contest looked them over rather disdainfully and in the words of the Japanese said, "Both are worse."

Ray Norton, having successfully passed the tests put to him and having subscribed to the scouts oath, was initiated into troop No. 3 with regular ceremonies which were quite impressive and gave those unfamiliar with the work a splendid idea of what it means to the boys and their leaders.

The entire Lions club as well as visitors were quite enthused and appreciative of the work accomplished and eager to assist in any way to carry it on.

BICYCLE IS ONCE MORE IN SPOTLIGHT

Riders To Gather At Chaffey Union High School Tomorrow—Prizes To Be Awarded Best Riders of Bicycles

All set, clear the road! Tomorrow is the day of the bike. The one time "king of the road" is to have his inning tomorrow afternoon. Never before has Upland had an opportunity to witness such activity in the bicycle world. Old and modern bicycles have been taken out of basements and store rooms, it is said, and are being oiled up for the big Saturday sociability bike ride and decorated wheel parade at Chaffey Union High School Athletic Field.

Old and young boys and girls will be in line. No youngster with a bicycle should miss this treat. Experienced riders, who rode in the days when the bike was supreme, and boys who have just received their first wheel, will be found together in the parade.

On one of the line will be found juveniles—their ages ranging from four years upwards—on the other end will be older folks who did "bicycle courting" over a quarter of a century ago riding ancient bikes.

So don't mind your age. Remember there are prizes for both the old and the youthful rider who is taking his first big spin. Some are decorating their wheels, but that is not absolutely necessary. As long as you have a machine that will pass as a bicycle, whether it is new or old, festooned and bannered, or as it came from the factory, you will be welcome to ride.

Younger folks may have a chance to see the kinds of bicycles their dads and mothers used in their youthful days. Many that haven't mounted a bike in years are welcoming this opportunity of getting out for an afternoon of healthful sport.

It is indicated by reports of local bicycle dealers that considerable interest has been displayed in the revival of the bicycle. Get out your old "high boy" or tandem and join in this get together tomorrow afternoon.

At Chaffey Athletic Field a demonstration along safety first lines will be given by J. Howard Rodda, of the Cycle Trades of America, New York, at the end of the ride. Plenty of seats in the grand stand for spectators. Everybody welcome and everything free.

Wonderful Setting
Never in its history has an annual meeting of the Upland Chamber of Commerce been held in as ideal surroundings as that of last night. The New Woman's Club House with its artistic hangings, its soft alluring colors blending into a mellow lighting effect combined as an ideal spot for friends and neighbors to gather and hear of the year's work of an organization that has nearest its heart the welfare of the community and the development of this city into a still more ideal community in which to live.

Another feature that lent a neighborliness to the annual dinner was the fact that members of the Upland Woman's Club served it. The dinner itself was par excellence and the fact that the

POMEROY ENCOURAGES HEARERS TO BUILD FOR FUTURE

Hugh Pomeroy, secretary of the Los Angeles County Regional Planning Commission, came to Upland last night with a message of encouragement for the builders of cities, towns and communities in Southern California. With a vision and foresight which resulted in preparedness the Regional Planning Commission saw before it a growth and development which meant the laying out of a comprehensive program to care for traffic, not only on all main boulevards, but arteries as well.

Before two hundred people Mr. Pomeroy told his story at the annual meeting of the Upland Chamber of Commerce at the Woman's Club House last night.

"You people of neighboring towns to Los Angeles are proceeding along the right line in laying out your plans, before your cities get to the point where you have to move buildings in order to widen your streets to care for traffic. We in Los Angeles County have had to do that very thing at a tremendous cost.

America Believes In God

(Milwaukee Journal)

There can be but little surprise that a questionnaire addressed to people all over the country shows that 89 per cent of Americans believe in God. The questionnaire was wide-spread, but the return was not very large. Think about it a little, and you will believe that any fairly complete census would show a larger percentage; for to many persons some questions are too absurd to bother about.

Nor is there any point in the hasty conclusion that the United States is more believing—"more godly," as an inspired headline put it—than Great Britain because a similar query by the London News shows only 73 per cent of Britishers affirming their faith. Our American investigation showed only 69 per cent of New Yorkers answering in the affirmative. Is New York more infidel than the rest of the country? Perhaps, but not by the difference between 89 per cent and 68. People in metropolitan districts hear faith questioned more, just as they hear more of all kinds of noises. It does less violence to the conventions of their circles to express doubt or outright disbelief.

Why should not America believe in God? It set out that way, and its most brilliant discoverers of truths about nature and the universe have not offered any other explanation. They have pushed the question farther back; they have shown how much more marvelous is the universe than we need to think it. They have explained many phenomena believed in earlier ages to be direct acts of one god or another. But they have not explained a beginning. They have controlled physical powers, but not originated them.

But reason is not the foundation of faith. Well, then, we have had no new phrasing of the deepest things of the heart of man or the truth of what is worth while in life to go beyond or even reach those teachings from Galilee on which was founded the faith held by those who made America. Of course America believes in God, and more than 89 per cent of it. Some deep students do not; many very shallow students say they do not. But God is for most of us the very beginning and center of the eternal verities.

An Easy and Effective Method

(Hollywood Daily Citizen)

The evils of the assessment shark can be curbed and well may our state legislators and our city council direct their thoughts to that end.

Because of our present laws the amount of excessive tolls paid on assessments by delinquents would exceed many times over the amount of property taken by the thieves and criminals of the state.

The number of people who have suffered because of delinquent assessments is immeasurably greater than the number of people who suffer at the hands of the criminals. Much attention and millions of money are devoted to the suppression of the criminal and relief of his victims.

A little attention and consideration rightly should be given to the innocent victims of other injustices.

It makes no difference to the individual whether he pays fifty dollars over to an assessment shark for a penalty or hands his purse over to the man back of a gun.

In neither event does he get anything but embarrassment, humiliation, deprivation and an honest cause for complaint.

Our legislative bodies exist among other things for the protection of the people against injustices, and certainly the assessment shark penalties affect about as many people with injury as anything one can point to.

And while our legislators are giving consideration to the methods by which some of the delinquent assessment injustices may be eliminated why not consider the matter of providing sufficient publicity for assessments so that the people desirous of paying their honest bills have a chance of receiving notice of what they are supposed to pay?

If it were required by law that notices of delinquencies be published in newspapers of general circulation in the section in which the property is located, then, nine chances out of ten, the interested property owner would see it or a neighbor or friend would see it and inform the delinquent of it.

At this point someone will arise to say that of course a newspaper is looking for business. This newspaper has no such thought in mind, but if it did we would not apologize for holding it.

Every good newspaper has assisted in making fortunes for those who recognize the value of well-planned publicity. Why shouldn't a newspaper knowing the value of its columns suggest them as a means of preventing much injustice?

And this is only one means.

There are others and the legislators have some of them under consideration.

The evils of delinquent assessments can be wiped out and it will take but a few sincere, intelligent, capable legislators to bring about the desired results.

Rubbish

(National Farm News)

Whenever you hear law-makers say, "If the farmers would only get together behind some particular bill, we will support it," it is perfectly safe, indeed proper, to call such vapors mere rubbish, for these statesmen know full well that the farmers, like all other human beings, are never unanimous on any subject. The truth is that such "trimmers" are only seeking some avenue of escape from public duty.

Living under different conditions and surrounded by adverse environments, it is next to impossible for any large number to fully agree on a single subject in all its ramifications. Therefore it is not strange that all farmers are not fully agreed on a single method by which to restore agriculture to its proper place in American life. And that isn't strange either, for as we look about us we find others disagreeing on many subjects. The "fifty-seven different varieties" of church organizations show that even on matters of high moral endeavor there is a difference of opinion as to the best road to travel in order to reach the goal. And yet nobody would be silly enough to claim that no effort should be made to live decently because all don't see alike.

Very frequently Generals disagree as to the best way to win a battle, but no one is insane enough to advocate complete surrender to the enemy. If we were to wait until all doctors agreed, before attempting to eradicate disease from our bodies, the cemeteries of the land would be filled with the graves of perfect fools.

Agreement in matters of legislation is as rare as a robin in mid-winter and nobody knows this better than these same "smart alecks" who are constantly demanding that all of the farmers must be behind a certain bill before they will do anything to relieve agriculture. We have a tariff law and an income tax law, but each was enacted without anything like perfect agreement. The same difference of opinion is to be found elsewhere. Only half the lawyers must be right, when cases are fought in court. Congressmen are elected, as a rule, by majorities. Supreme Court decisions are frequently rendered by a divided court. Even in marriage, disagreements are not unknown. Must mankind remain in single blissfulness simply because some couples fail to live in perfect harmony? Nonsense. If we must wait until all farmers are agreed upon a certain measure before farm protection is to become more than a desire, it can only make its appearance in another world. It's about time that our law-makers quit trying to fool their constituents and act sensibly.

War In the Air Will Include Use of Radio

(San Bernardino Sun)

Ever since the close of the great conflict we have been told that the next war will be fought in the air. Our mental vision has been filled with pictures of great fleets of airplanes and airships contending in the skies and raining upon armies, cities, villages and hamlets a storm of explosives and clouds of poison gases. Extermination from above has been prophesied to be the lot of combatant and non-combatant alike.

While this may all be true, and is bad enough in all good conscience, we are now being told that the worst has not yet been pictured. There is to be still another kind of war in the air. A battle of words is to be waged by radio. Should Germany and England be at outs the Germans will fill the air with propaganda in what the Germans believe to be good English, and the Britons will fill the air with like propaganda in what they conceive to be perfect Saxon. We may conceive that the English and the Germans will not tune in to all these propaganda broadcasts, but how about the rest of the world, whose ears must be burdened with this German-made English and this English-made German?

We know now what horrible lies were sent out to the world by the propaganda departments of the combatants before the United States entered the war. It was all done to work us up to a pitch of feeling that would plunge us in on the one side or lead us to stay out on the other. But they had only the telegraph and the newspaper to depend upon. Now the whole universe of the air is open and in nearly every American home there will be a radio set to pick the lies out of the air and pour them into credulous if not sympathetic ears. The future war in the air promises to be a terrible one.

Wise men are now buying farms. They will do for parking spaces five years from now.—The Dayton Daily News.

Tested Recipes

Veal Loaf

3 pounds lean veal; ¼ pound salt pork; 1 cup cracker crumbs; 3 eggs well beaten; salt, pepper, sage.

Chop the veal and pork very fine and mix ingredients, seasoning with salt, pepper and sage. Press in a bread pan and bake two and one-half hours. Melt one tablespoon of butter in one cup hot water and every half hour pour a spoonful over the meat. Set pan into a larger pan partly filled with hot water during the last hour of baking, and if it browns too fast on top, cover with a paper. The same recipe may be used for beef loaf, and may be served hot with tomato sauce or sliced cold. Use medium flame.

Breaded Veal Cutlets

Use slices cut from leg. Remove bone and cut in pieces for serving. Beat an egg, mix with it a little parsley (picked fine), salt and pepper, and if desired a little grated lemon rind. Dip cutlets in mixture, then coat with bread crumbs and fry in salt pork fat or butter. Pour over cutlets brown sauce.

Roast Pork

Wipe pork, sprinkle with salt and pepper, place in dripping pan and dredge meat and pan with flour. Bake over a medium flame three or four hours, basting every fifteen minutes with the fat in the pan. Make gravy as for Roast Beef.

Baked Ham

Rub ham well with baking soda and scrub with warm water. Place in baking pan and add two quarts of sweet cider boiling hot. (Water may be substituted for cider.) Rub a chopped onion, brown sugar and a little cinnamon over top of ham and put into the oven. Cook slowly for five or six hours.

Boiled Ham

Soak over night or for several hours in water to cover. Wash thoroughly, trim off hard skin near the bone, place in a large kettle, cover with cold water and heat to boiling point over a medium flame. Lower flame a trifle and cook until tender. A ham weighing twelve to fourteen pounds requires four or five hours' cooking. Remove kettle from stove and allow ham to partially cool; then take it from water, remove outside skin, sprinkle with fine cracker crumbs and stick with cloves one inch apart. Bake one hour over a low flame. Serve cold, thinly sliced.

Casserole Ham

1 slice of ham cut 1½ inches thick (about 1½ pounds); 4 medium-sized potatoes; milk.

Parboil ham for ten or fifteen minutes. Remove bone and superfluous fat. Place ham in casserole, slice potatoes thin and place them on top of ham. Pour over milk until it can be seen through top layer of potatoes. Cover and bake until potatoes are done.

Smothered Sausages

Prick pork or veal sausages and place in casserole or covered pan. Cover with mashed potatoes; cover potatoes with an egg well beaten; cover egg with fine bread crumbs. Bake thirty minutes over high flame.

Broiled Bacon

The best way to cook bacon is to broil it. Cut the bacon in the thinnest possible slices, rejecting the rind. Lay the pieces close together on grill of a broiler. Place broiler with hood projecting over the flame (broiler itself is not placed directly over the flame); see instructions on each broiler. Use high flame. The fat which falls into the pan may be used for frying potatoes. Drain the bacon on brown paper.

To serve calf's liver with bacon, sprinkle the liver with salt and pepper, roll it in flour and fry brown in the bacon drippings.

Maine Baked Pork and Beans

1 quart dry beans; ½ to 1 pound salt pork; 1 tablespoon molasses; 1 teaspoon salt.

Pick over beans, cover with cold water and soak over night. In the morning drain and place in bean pot. Scald rind of one-half pound salt pork (or more, if preferred), selecting a piece all fat or mixed fat and lean, according to taste. Make inch-deep cuts in the rind, a half inch apart, and bury pork in beans, leaving the rind exposed. Add molasses, salt and boiling water to cover the beans. Cover the bean pot, place in oven and bake over a medium flame for two hours, then lower the flame and bake for five or six hours longer. Add water, a little at a time, as needed.

Speeches Given at Annual Meeting Co-Operative Fumigation Company

Following are several speeches given at the regular annual meeting of the Co-operative Fumigation & Supply Co., recently held:

Difference Between Calcium Cyanide and the Liquid Fumigation

Mr. Quagle

It is the business of we at the Experimental Station to develop new methods as they come along, and I remember very distinctly a few years ago when the liquid came into use, receiving a letter from Mr. Scott wanting our opinion of it, and at that time it looked very hopeful to me. The only thing that I was concerned about was could it be carried on with safety to the operators. We took that up from the beginning and a number of people rather discouraged us from working on the thing, because of the dangerous nature of the materials. This experiment was being carried out by Mr. Dingle and the growers wanted to know something about it, and when there is anything that comes along that the growers want to find out the facts about, that is part of our business. The liquid has now taken the field and represents a very high development of the fumigation business. In most of the other countries they use the pot system.

The first fumigation was in 1886, with pots being placed under the trees. This system remained in vogue until 1913, and since then we have switched from the pots to portable generators and then to the liquid. We then tested calcium cyanide to see if it would give off gas rapidly enough to be applicable to the citrus, and would kill the scale. This comes in flakes from which the gas was given off very slowly. Our first test which was carried on in the dryer part of the season was successful in killing the scale without injuring the tree. We soon found that moisture caused considerable damage. So I gave up the work with this, so far as citrus fumigation was concerned. We then tried it in Australia under dryer conditions than we have here. We also tried it in Tulare county, and it proved satisfactory, so that it might possibly be used up there, probably making it as profitable to use the dust as the liquid. This might possibly reduce the cost of fumigation and that is what we are striving for at this time. The cost of the crude material would be about ten cents a pound. It would do away with the extra expense of the upkeep of these liquid factories by using this material in the crude form without going through that factory. This promises to reduce that price. The Australians were successful up to the time the rains begin in that country early in May. At the present time this method has practically replaced the older method of fumigation in that country. They were used to the pot system but were willing to run some risk and injury. There were about 300,000 citrus trees fumigated last year in that country by this method. This material is cyanide of gas in the calcium cyanide. This material does more injury and more damage to the lemon tree than to the orange tree, and with this fumigation with the dust the lemon trees are much more susceptible to the injury. They are pretty well satisfied over there with the oranges, but not with the lemons because of the injury.

Citrus fumigation was my chief problem and last year another concern developed another method or another material in which the cyanide was carried in dust form, giving off a gas simply in contact with the air, to bring about the forms of hydrocyanic acid. So I have been giving some little time to that problem during the last seven months. They first have to make the liquid acid and then combine it, so that the problem of making it is not so cheap as the other, but it is a much purer production, and gives off its gas much more rapidly making it better for the citrus work, for you want a gas which is given off as rapidly as possible. The first problem was the amount to be used on the basis of liquid. When we first began working with this dust one of the most interesting things was that the dust contained less hydrocyanic acid. We found that by putting a less amount of dust under the tent we got the same amount of concentration under the tent. That means a less loss of gas from dust than the liquid. In the "Citrograph" the ratio was given that one ounce equals sixteen cubic centimeters of liquid. Scientific tests have shown that that is rather too favorable and that one and one fourth ounce of Calcium dust is equivalent to twenty cubic centimeters of liquid.

What is the advantage of it? First, the greatest advantage would be the question of safety. While the dust is the safest material to use, yet it is true that we can use liquid with a very reasonable degree of safety. Although fifteen or twenty deaths have occurred during the period of using liquid hydrocyanic gas. Second: You can have a thorough distribution under the tree. Third: Cost. In this new form of calcium we find the cost higher than the liquid. In Australia they were using the pot system, but once they saw the simplicity of blowing dust under the tree, they at once liked the idea, but here where we are making the liquid there is a different situation and the liquid is about the simplest method of fumigation that we can hope to have, there is no residue and very high powered material. Working with dust it must be blown under the tree, and the machine they are using involved a Ford. Now we had the auto in use but one of the objections was that there was no increase of kill in scale and it must have more complete machinery to deliver this dust than the liquid. This dust is safer to handle. No trouble about transportation, keeping it any length of time, and leaving it in any field, and it will kill scale provided it is used in sufficient amounts. If it is used at the rate of 1 ounce to 16 cubic centimeters of liquid the results have been pretty satisfactory on the scales, but this hydrocyanic gas is not free from injury. They are beginning to fumigate in Palestine, and they are now fumigating in Spain. Whether the dust will come to very general use is dependent on the cost of it, for we are already paying a rather heavy tax on our pests. This dust method is used in green houses only in Southern California.

I believe that I have told you of some of the advantages and disadvantages of this new Calcium Cyanide, known as Citrofum.

Spraying

Prof. R. S. Woglum

On the spraying problem as Mr. Scott and your president have said, this year has been about the most disastrous season in regard to spraying that we have ever seen. We are beginning to feel that we do not know anything about it, because things we knew last year have been contradicted this season. We have found that for your district an early fumigation in the orchard, followed by a sulphur spray, about October, was what would give you a clean orchard, and would get you out without very little injury from scale. This year we advised a lady to spray and she followed our advice and sprayed. It killed her crop. Later on we advised her to spray again and she followed our advice and sprayed again. This time it killed all that it had not killed the first time. I never have tried to give her advice any more. In this particular case we wanted to be sure that they killed the scale and with no injury to fruit. They were injured. That has been the case the whole season. The first spray they did it on a fine day and a hot spell followed. The second treatment was put on in good weather and a few days later the hot spell in October came.

Since I have been in the game I have never seen any case of this oil and sulphur, dropping fruit unless it was during the weather so hot that it is severely burned the fruit, and yet this year I saw some of the most severe cases of dropping of oranges in October and November, where there was no burning. I do not know why, but this is the thing that has happened. I have never in my life before seen Lime Sulphur drop oranges in this territory, and yet this year it has dropped many oranges. Why has it? I can not help but feel but that this last year the trees have been in an abnormal condition in some orchards. This was the third year of more or less dry conditions and we have had unusual dry spells in October with low humidity. Thus climatic condition have had an effect upon the trees I never have seen Valencia in October and November split on the trees. That looks as though they were in an abnormal condition. Thus spraying has intensified it.

We are not going to give any definite recommendations until we have gone through and found out what the scale kill is, but we do know that if we had tangerine trees we would not spray before November and December and preferably not spray at all, because three-fourths of those sprayed have been severely damaged. Lay off of tangerines as far as spraying is concerned and fumigate. If you do spray, do it late. There is more red scale this year than there has been the last seven years. The only thing we feel that

Tentative Loading Plan To Be Submitted to Shippers and Growers by Association Representatives As Defects Met

There is no reason why grape growing in California should not yield a revenue of $100,000,000 a year instead of some $35,000,000 which is the present production according to Donald D. Conn of Washington, director of public relations of the American Railway Association, who is now in Southern California.

A tentative grape car-loading plan, revised to meet the defects of the plan tried out for the first time last year, will be submitted by representatives of the association to the shippers and growers of the state.

Similar to 1926 Plan

"I have been in California for several days to confer with representatives of our association, as well as others interested in the grape industry, in regard to a plan for providing cars for moving the 1927 grape crop," said Conn. "The essentials of the plan have now been outlined and it will be submitted to the grape interests for their approval. If approved by them, it will go to the interstate commerce commission for the sanction of that body."

"The tentative plan is similar in most respects to the plan of 1926. It requires six days' notice to the railroads of weekly car requirements by any individual shipper, instead of 10 days, which was last year's provision. It also requires the shipper to furnish a bond guaranteeing payment of freight charges when he gives notice of his car requirements and provides for a penalty in case he asks for more cars than he can use."

Eliminate Shippers

The primary object of the plan is to eliminate irresponsible shippers and to keep cars moving to shipping points without confusion and in sufficient number to take care of requirements as the crop gets ready for shipment. "Before the plan was adopted wildcat speculators were in the habit of making demands for cars far in excess of their demands thus breeding endless confusion," said Mr. Conn.

It is fundamental to the success of the railway service that the grape industry should be properly organized," he commented. "Much of the loss suffered by the industry last year was due to the lack of organization on the part of shippers and growers."

"The nucleus of such an organization, known as the California Vineyardists' association, recently has been formed. The directors of the organization met a few days ago at Fresno to discuss various problems confronting them, including that of instituting a membership campaign."

GAS--The Public's Utility

As a public utility, the Gas Industry is essentially a democratic institution.

It serves with equal efficiency the home with its gas range and heating appliances as well as the great manufacturing plant which daily consumes enormous quantities of this economical, dependable fuel.

Its consumers and investors represent people in every walk of life, a true cross-section of the nation.

A QUESTION

After reading a few of Machiavelli's essays on chicanery, one wonders how long he would last as a modern used car dealer. It would give him a great laugh, we know, to see how conscientiously we recondition our Used Cars before offering them for sale. But the proof of a principle is in its success—and the laugh would be on him, after all.

SURPRISE PARTY HONORS THREE UPLANDERS—

Honoring Mrs. Clyde Jones, Mrs. Howard Graves and Floyd Jones, whose birthdays all occurred within the week, a very cleverly planned surprise party was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Jones, 266 Eighth avenue.

Dinner invitations were issued to the guests of honor to attend dinner at the Jones home and upon their arrival they were greeted by a great many of their friends who had been bidden to attend the dinner and who had assembled early in order to welcome the honorees on their arrival. The dining table presented a lovely picture, with elaborate floral centerpiece and tall red candles, while a beautiful birthday cake with many tiny lighted candles was a feature of the last course.

During the evening, the honor guests were presented with lovely gifts and those who came to wish them "many happy returns" were Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Bowman, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Creighton, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Waltman, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McConkey, Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Rhodes, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Graves, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Jones, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Martin of Ontario; Mrs. Anna Bryant, and the Misses Bernice Jones, Helen Jones and Junior Waltman.

MRS. CRIST HOSTESS TO ENTRE NOUS CLUB—

Members of the Ontario Entre Nous Club were delightfully entertained on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Paul Herman Crist, 111 South Vine street, Ontario.

Mrs. Crist chose a Valentine motif for her decorations, which was expressed with red hearts and gorgeous bouquets of red blooms, the same lovely note being repeated in the menu.

Social visiting and fancy work occupied the afternoon and Mrs. Crist's guests were Mrs. D. M. Collins, Mrs. E. B. Lillie, Mrs. F. B. Chaffee, Mrs. De F. Walton, Mrs. E. D. Folconer, Mrs. W. B. Gillette, Mrs. Elizabeth Serio and Mrs. A. C. Crist.

DANCING PARTY AT RED HILL TONIGHT—

Members of the Red Hill Country club and their guests will enjoy another of the popular dancing parties this evening, and many have signified their intention of attending. The spacious ball room is very attractive with its decorations of gorgeous purple and lavender iris while the two fire places are banked with greenery and ferns. Simpson's orchestra has been engaged for the affair and the dancers will trip the light fantastic until the wee sma' hours.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL SCOUTS PLAN HIKE—

The grammar school Girl Scouts are planning a delightful hike for tomorrow, when accompanied by their leaders they will spend the day in the hills. Members of the Ontario troops will meet at the High School at eight o'clock and the Upland and Cucamonga scouts will be at the Pacific Electric junction at eight-ten o'clock. School buses will take the girls as far as the Spring Hill trail and from that point they will hike to the Girl's cabin in Barretts canyon. Each girl is asked to bring her lunch, a cup and twenty cents and to be at their meeting places at the hour appointed.

LA ESTRELLA AUXILIARY HOLDS ALL DAY MEETING—

With Mrs. Gus Adderson, Mrs. Perry Long and Mrs. Carl Eberts acting as hostesses, members of La Estrella Auxiliary, Order of the Eastern Star, held an all day meeting on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Anderson, 554 East Tenth street.

A profusion of gayly colored everlasting flowers and tall baskets of golden accacia blossoms were used in attractive decorations and a delicious surprise luncheon was served at one o'clock.

At the business meeting which followed the luncheon, Mrs. Elizabeth Rogers was appointed to serve on the Hospital Auxiliary Board, and Mrs. Perry Long, Mrs. Gus Anderson and Mrs. Richard Dixon were elected a committee of three to visit the sick and needy and to report any welfare cases to members of the Auxiliary.

During the afternoon, the members were busily engaged in working on supplies for the San Antonio Community Hospital and among those present were Mrs. William Avery, Mrs. Annie Youngstrom, Mrs. Milroy Wisely, Mrs. Perry Long, Mrs. C. Eberts, Mrs. Mary Eckerman, Mrs. Isabella Wisely, Mrs. A. N. Monroe, Mrs. Isabella Foster, Mrs. Grace Paulin, Mrs. Gus Anderson, Mrs. Jennie Brown, Mrs. D. D. Crew, Mrs. Etta Johnston, Mrs. Sarah Nelson, Mrs. Elizabeth Rogers and Mrs. T. H. Chastain.

RED HILL AFFAIR TO BE BRILLIANT—

Among the many affairs that are being planned for an early date and one that will set the calendar for future parties is the bridge and 500 party, given for members of the Red Hill Country Club and their out of town guests and at which Mrs. W. M. Kincaid will preside. On Monday evening at the club house. Elaborate floral decorations in which the Valentine motif plays a predominating note, will be employed and lovely prizes will be awarded the winners at the close of the tourney.

A delicious tea will be served following the game and the Mesdames Charles H. Wimpess, Harold C. Moore and Charles Puckett will preside at the tea urns. Many reservations have already been received by the hostess and the club secretary, Mr. Neill, and those who have not as yet reserved their tables are asked to do so as soon as possible.

Mrs. Kincaid will be assisted by Mrs. Harleigh Brown, Mrs. Harvey Chapman and Mrs. Walter V. Combs.

SEWING CIRCLE AT HOME OF MRS. BURKHOLDER—

Fifty members of the Sewing Circle of the Brethren in Christ Church held an all day meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. C. C. Burkholder, 495 First avenue. The day was spent in sewing for the orphanage at Mount Carmel Illinois, in which members of this circle are interested and a beautiful quilt was also made and later will be given to some needy family. At noon a delicious hot dinner was served and Mrs. Burkholder was assisted by Mrs. B. L. Engle and Mrs. J. B. Leaman.

MARY HELEN REYNOLDS IS HOSTESS—

Miss Mary Helen Reynolds was a gracious young hostess last evening when she entertained members of her Sunday School class at a Valentine party, at the home of her parents 306 First avenue.

Red hearts and dainty lace Valentines were employed in the decorations and Mary Helen introduced a number of clever games and stunts during the evening. At the close of the evening Miss Reynolds, assisted by her sister Miss Betty Reynolds served a dainty collation to her guests who numbered Mrs. I. W. Jellison, who is teacher of the class, Alice Laury, Jasmine Allen, Lois Lane, Naomi Danforth, May Griffith, Donald Benson, DeVon Francisco, Leonard Hibbs, John Jellison, William Carso, Billy Rogers and Horace Williams.

ISAAC WALTON LEAGUE HOLDS MEETING—

Members of the Isaac Walton League enjoyed a most enthusiastic meeting on Wednesday evening at the City Hall, when thirty-five members were present. During the absence of the president, Frank Buffington, director Perry Long presided. The meeting was strictly a business one and during the session the following members were accepted: Mat Hisey, G. Steiner, E. A. Tutker and H. Purie of Claremont. An interesting report was given pertaining to the pheasants that were turned loose last fall on the Phillips ranch near Chino, and it was reported that three of the birds have died and one was found shot. The members were indignant over the fact that some ruthless hunter had shot one of the birds and every effort is being made to catch the culprit. As May 1st is the opening of the fishing season, members of the various committees will exercise every precaution to see that the fisherman obey the game laws to the letter.

MRS. BREST IS LUNCHEON HOSTESS—

Members of the Mah Jong club enjoyed a delightful meeting recently when they were luncheon guests at the home of Mrs. G. A. Brest, 478 First avenue.

The hostess chose fragrant violets for her decoration a long low vase of the velvety flowers graced the center of the luncheon table and tall red whip candles in dainty holders were placed at either end of the table. Auction bridge was played during the afternoon and prizes at the close of the game were awarded to Mrs. Ernest Mehl for high score while Mrs. L. N. Kirk captured the consolation. Mrs. Brest's list included Mrs. Charles Devers, Mrs. Ernest Mehl, Mrs. Loring N. Kirk, Mrs. I. J. Linkey, Mrs. Harry Plum, Mrs. C. K. Francisco, and Mrs. Sylvia Duncan.

HOUSE WARMING AT ALMQUIST HOME—

Complimenting members of the Ford Sales Rooms Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Almquist are holding "open house" this evening at their pretty new bungalow on Euclid avenue. The affair will be in the nature of a Valentine party and Mrs. Almquist has employed a myriad of red hearts and red sweet peas in her decorations. Valentine games will be played during the evening and the same lovely motif will be played during the evening and the same lovely motif will be repeated in the menu. Mr. and Mrs. Almquist's guest list includes Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lamb, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bull, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Scritchfield, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. F. Krunkland, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Teuscher, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Rowand, Miss Rhetta Frakes and Robert Pullen.

MRS. GLASS ENTERTAINS EASTERN STAR AUXILIARY—

With the Mesdames E. F. Glass, Allie Hatcher and R. Stimson acting as hostesses, members of the Ontario Eastern Star Auxiliary were delightfully entertained yesterday afternoon at the home of the former, 310½ East D street, Ontario.

A profusion of violets and pink sweet peas were used in attractive decorations throughout the rooms and auction bridge was the medium of entertainment during the afternoon. The final scoring gave Mrs. E. H. Richardson the high score. At the close of the afternoon the hostesses served dainty refreshments to their guests numbering the Mesdames E. H. Richardson, Glenn McCurdy, E. Wood McGill, Benjamin Warner, William Gist, Calvert Emmons, Charles Crawford, R. Pichnor, William Batchelor, M. Hadley, Roy Carder, Arthur Hargraves, Walter Axley, F. N. Davidson, D. D. Crew and George Holbrook.

The proposed creation of a third department of the superior court submitted to the supervisors by the Bar association two weeks ago, was discussed by the supervisors and Judges Allison and Warner. The supervisors asked if the assigning of an extra jurist would assist in relieving congestion in the courts and were assured by the jurists that it would aid materially.

Chemists declare that the discovery of potash deposits in Pecos County, Texas, will free American agriculture from dependence on Europe for this product.

COURT CASES

Crain To Ask Judicial Council
To Assign Extra Jurist To County Bench Temporarily
As Third Judge

Acting to relieve the congestion in the courts, Chairman C. A. Crain of the board of supervisors will request the judicial council to assign Judge Pat R. Parker of Mono county to sit temporarily as a third judge in the superior court.

The decision to ask the council, created by the voters at the last election, to assign an extra jurist to the courts was announced by the supervisors after a conference with Superior Judges Benjamin F. Warner and Charles L. Allison.

Judge Parker will not be available for service in San Bernardino county until Oct. 1, his own court calendar requiring his services until that date. Because of the small population of Mono county, there are not enough cases to keep Judge Parker busy throughout the year and he frequently sits in various superior courts of the state, assisting in clearing calendars. Judge Parker has often presided in the superior court in San Bernardino.

The cost of obtaining Judge Parker's services will be his monthly salary and expenses. In the event Judge Parker cannot be secured, the supervisors will ask that another jurist be assigned to San Bernardino county for a few weeks, at least.

MRS. BEAUBIER SPEAKER TUESDAY—

Mrs. Jackson N. Beaubier, prominent club woman of Alberta, Canada, who is spending the winter in Southern California, will be the speaker before the members of the Business and Professional Woman's Club, Monday noon. The luncheon will be held in the Davis Cafe banquet room and a feature of the program will be a stunt arranged by Mrs. Robert Campbell, entitled "The Passing of the Bell."

The Executive Board meeting of the Club was held Wednesday at the Community Cottage and plans discussed for a dinner and program to be given the end of February. It is expected that Margaret Yale, president of the State Federation, will be the speaker of the evening. Mrs. Mark Bailey announced that the next meeting of the President's Council would be held Saturday at Eagle Rock. Several of the local club women are planning to attend.

Nine members were present at the Executive Board meeting, including Mrs. Mark Bailey, Mrs. Geo. L. Winter, Mrs. R. C. Williams, Mrs. S. M. Jessup, Mrs. R. N. Leahy, Mrs. Robert Campbell, Miss Leola Lee, Miss Elvira Ruth and Miss Nell Atherton.

CELEBRATING FIFTY-SECOND WEDDING ANNIVERSARY—

Celebrating the fifty-second anniversary of their wedding day, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Thompson are holding "open house" today at their home on East 11th street.

The "bride and groom" were married February 11, 1875, in Georgeville, Pennsylvania, and have made their home in Upland for the last twenty-one years. During their residence here they have made a host of friends who join today in wishing them many happy returns of the auspicious event. Those assisting Mrs. Thompson today are their daughter Mrs. Albert Werner of Etiwanda; Mrs. William Yellis, Mrs. F. Johnston of Ontario; Mrs. James Thompson, Mrs. Edgar Holt, Mrs. J. C. Langraf, Mrs. M. E. Hill and Miss Martha Steiner.

School Notes

The boys played a return game of basketball with Claremont Junior High team at Claremont last Tuesday afternoon. They again won with a score of 16 to 6.

Yesterday our boys played the Chaffey Freshmen at Chaffey and won with a score of 22 to 12.

The Assembly program this morning was given by Mrs. Kouts' first grade and was in the nature of a Valentine play. At the conclusion of the program a beautiful silk flag on a brass standard was presented to the school by the eighth grade class of 1926 and the eighth grade class of 1927. Last year's class left a sum of money for this purpose and the present eighth grade added enough to it to purchase a very lovely flag. The gift was accepted by Mr. G. A. Hanson, president of the Board of Trustees, and Col. Taylor, clerk of the Board. A large number of the Chaffey Freshmen were here to witness the presentation and were taken back in a Chaffey bus at the conclusion of the program.

REGULAR MONTHLY MEETING OF RED CROSS CHAPTER

The regular monthly meeting of Upland Chapter A. R. C. was held as usual at the Library with Mrs. Manker in the chair. Following the adoption of the minutes of the previous meeting, the treasurer's report was read showing $79.15 had been spent in welfare work during the month. Mrs. Fuller, city nurse, reported 84 visits to the Well Baby Clinic, with 20 visitors. She herself made 21 nursing visits, 14 welfare visits and 5 investigating visits during the month. She distributed six quarts of fruit and three glasses of jelly to the sick. Mrs. Hanson, for the Welfare Committee, reported two pairs of shoes and some stockings bought for those needing them.

The American Red Cross, Upland Chapter, bought a $25 membership in the Auxiliary to San Antonio Hospital, with Mrs. H. W. Flowers appointed as representative.

Hereafter meetings of the Chapter will be held quarterly, beginning with the April meeting. An executive committee, composed of the officers, will transact all business between meetings.
A letter from U. S. Veterans' Hospital, No. 50, at Whipple, Arizona, expressed the appreciation of director of the Red Cross Service, Miss Frances B. Doane, for the $15 sent at Christmas time to help make cheer for the disabled soldiers there. About 2,500 packages were distributed. The money sent was used for decoration, of the wards and of the Red Cross recreation room, which is 125 feet long. Over 100 trees were decorated and a gift was given to each man.

The Pacific Branch Chapters are providing garments for distribution by the Red Cross nurses in the Philippines and within our own territory. Upland's quota for 1927 is five bathrobes, five bed-jackets, five sweaters without sleeves, five layettes and 25 Christmas bags. Upland Chapter will not be asked for anything more this year unless some calamity should make it necessary. The Christmas bags must be ready to ship to foreign countries wherever our boys—soldiers and sailors—are stationed and are usually sent in September. A letter received from China will show just how this part of Red Cross work is appreciated:
"Company 'L', 15th Infantry, "Tientsin, China."

"My Dear friends:
"Received your Christmas gift, and it was very nice of you in sending such worthy things. I do appreciate this gift from the bottom of my heart.
"I wish you and your friends happiness in the next year, and may God bless you all, and help you step by step, through life, and be with you all the time.
"May all things come true and sweet to you forever.
"Sincerely yours,
"Co. "L" 15th Infantry
"American Barracks,
"Tientsin, China."

CARDINAL LIGHTWEIGHTS WIN OVER TIGER BABES, 14 TO 13

Cardinals Practically Sure of Pennant—Have Only To Beat Riverside, Occupants of League Cellar, in Their Last C. B. L. Game This Year

Although the Chaffey lightweight basketball team was vanquished by the Gate City Five, by the score of 14 to 13, they put up one of the gamest fights seen in a long time. The game was played in the San Bernardino gym on Friday, February 4. At the first of the season it looked as though the Tigerlets were headed for a league championship, but all hopes went glimmering when a San Bernardino player sunk a free shot and put his team ahead in the last minute of play.

The game was hard fought from start to finish with the Cardettes always ahead until the last few minutes of the game. Just before the final whistle Chaffey tied the score 13 to 13 and were trying hard for the winning points when the fatal foul was made.

Bryan of the winning team was high point man with seven points to his credit, with Patton of Berdoo, Goshert and Terry of Chaffey tying for second high honors with four points each.

The Chaffey Cubs played their usual fast game, but found the Gate City Loys just a little too good for them. This game places Chaffey third in the league standing, Pomona being second.

The lineups were:
San Bernardino Chaffey
Malloy F. Benner 2
Bryan 7. F. Ball 2
Patton 4. C. Terry 4
Stoeton 3. G. Goshert 4
Gillsple G. Abrams

Chaffey Was Scene Of Court of Awards

Thursday, February 3, the Chaffey Girl Scouts, the Junior High Girl Scouts and the Grammar School Brownies held their first Court of Awards of the year in front of the Administration building. After the ceremony and the awarding of medals, the groups adjourned to the Auditorium where they were entertained by a program given by the Brownies and Chaffey Girl Scouts.

The Brownies presented a delightful pageant of different flags of different countries. Each flag bearer was in costume. The Girl Scouts gave an interesting and educational one-act play called "The Trial of the Fire." The scene was a court room, and various causes of fire were brought to trial, such as rubbish, defective chimneys, gasoline, matches and electricity. After all of the culprits had given their evidence, the judge formed the opinion that they were not the guilty ones and that carelessness was the real culprit.

The high school girls that received medals are: Louise Shattuck, Mary Graber, Gladys Peterson, Helen Strunk, Marie Matlin, Virginia Helvie, Helen Stanford, Charlis Helvie, Nancy Pratt, Marietta Hilton, Eloise Stoneburner, Pearl Swerdefer, Lenore Delahoyde, Mildred Hansen, Marian Henderson, Helen Brownless, Mildred Henderson, Annie May Layton, Eleanor Werner, Artemus McCann, Ellen Roe, Marian Frost, Lella Frost, Inez Rutledge, Lanna

DR. FERRIS GIVES ADDRESS BEFORE STUDENT BODIES

"That man's business is to find himself and his God," Dr. Lincoln Ferris, Monday's speaker in assembly, began his speech. His topic was finding oneself and ones God.

The students of Chaffey have always regarded Dr. Ferris as one of the best speakers presented in assembly. His topics were well chosen and interesting.

"The things that were considered miracles yesterday are playthings today," was another quotation of Dr. Ferris. From this, he told of the many things that were regarded yesterday as foolish and impossible and are the sensible and most possible things of today. This was proof that the world is developing very quickly.

It was slow in the start but now that it has begun it is increasing in speed.

He went on to say that he congratulated anyone that has found power, speech and genius, but if one hasn't found himself and his God, he can not be much of a success.

Dr. Ferris ended his speech by congratulating the younger generation on the wonderful advantages the future holds for them.

The Senior play was announced by "Bob" Stump, and tickets went on sale Monday. Reserved seats are to go on sale next Monday, February 14th.

Mr. Hill announced that assembly would be Tuesday of next week, and the speaker will be Cameron Beck, personnel director of the New York Stock Exchange. The Lincoln contest will be held Thursday of next week.

The musical program in assembly was two vocal solos by Hazel Williams, who sang the "Hindoo Love Song" and the "Pastoral Song" and a piano solo by Alice Spence.

Mr. Blakeslee made an announcement concerning the Mexican Tepica Band that is to be here next Monday. They will give a matinee in the auditorium at 4:00 and an evening program at 8:15 Monday night.

Gucca, Margaret Henderson, Henrietta Johns, Helen Smith, Ernest Paschke, Marjory Taylor, Isabel Mathews, Elinor Lee, Gene Chapman, Florence Jones, Dorothea Cox, Evelyn Swop and Marie Matlin.

LINCOLN ESSAYS ARE SUBMITTED TO THE JUDGES

The 1927 Lincoln Essay Contest is drawing to a close today. The prize, a beautiful medal presented by the Springfield, Illinois Watch Company, will be awarded to the writer of the best essay on some phase of Lincoln's life. The medal has a bas-relief of Lincoln on one side.

All English students were eligible for the contest, and many essays have been turned in. They are being read now, and the judging will be difficult because of the uniformly high character of the writing. Speculation is rife as to what class the winner will belong. Last year a Freshman, Eleanor Schumann, won the contest, while in 1925 Dorothy Smith, a Senior, came out first. Albert Baer, '24, won the contest in 1924.

The classroom teachers select the best composition in each class. These are turned over to Miss Avey, who selects the best eight papers and leaves the final choice to Mr. Whistler. The papers are judged, not upon specified points, but on general presentation. The subject is the character of Lincoln. Those chosen most frequently are about his honesty and sense of humor.

The grammar schools of Ontario and Upland are also engaged in writing essays on the same subject, though the grammar school students are competing for a cash prize.

WORK INCREASES IN CLASSES OF DOMESTIC ARTS

The various Domestic Science classes are getting larger and the girls seem enthusiastic about the work, according to Miss Graves, head of the department at Chaffey.

Three new sections of advanced cooking and two of advanced sewing have started. In the cooking classes the girls are studying meal planning, household management and the ideal kitchen. The J. C. class is serving dinners on the first Monday of every month to the board of Trustees. Almost every other Friday during third period, motion pictures featuring the manufacture of different foods and textiles, are shown in Conference hall.

Two elementary sewing classes are held fourth period with Mrs. Frank as supervisor, and during seventh period, two others are held under the direction of Miss Chaffey. The girls in these classes are doing well, having made many of their own clothes. Many of the girls in the advanced classes are sewing or the blue jumper style uniforms to be worn by some of the cast in "The Charn School."

The girls who are taking arts and crafts are doing some unusually good work. They have made very beautiful things this year.

PASADENA J. C. SQUAD WINS FROM CHAFFEY J. C. BASKETBALL TEAM

BARTLETT CHAFFEY HIGH POINT MAN

Pasadena Leads By But One Point At Close Of First Half, But Forges Ahead In Third and Fourth Quarters

Holding the Pirates, the championship team of the conference, during the first half of a fast game in the Chaffey gymnasium last Friday evening, the Panthers lost the contest with a 37 to 21 score which piled up during the second part of the game.

Ability to get the ball down the floor by dribbling and passing and the splendid teamwork shown were the greatest features of the Pasadena players. Basket shooting by Getz and Arnold made the scores for the visitors. During the first half the former made 15 points and the latter accounted for 14 digits.

Three long shots from the center of the floor by Bartlett, and one free throw made the running guard high-point man for the Panther squad. While throwing one of the field goals, Bartlett was struck, knocked to the floor and injured. Stock and Hawk each made five points and Detweller threw two field goals.

During the first half, the home team held the visitors to a 18 to 19 score. The playing of the Pirate squad held the Panthers and increased the score for the visiting quintet during the second half of the game. More persons witnessed the game last Friday than have seen any of the games played on the home court this season. Besides the students present, there were also a number of townspeople.

SENSE OF HUMOR WAS NOT LACKING IN ABE LINCOLN

Abraham Lincoln had a ready wit. His unusual and exalted honesty and humor were characteristic of a great man. This little story is told as a proof of these qualities.

One day Lincoln and a certain judge, who was an intimate friend of his, were bantering each other about horses, a favorite topic. Finally Lincoln said:

"Well, look here Judge! I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll make a horse-trade with you, only it must be upon these terms: Neither party shall see the other's horse until it is produced here in the courtyard of the hotel, and both parties must trade horses. If either backs out of the agreement he does so under a forfeiture of twenty-five dollars."

"Agreed," answered the judge, and both he and Lincoln went in quest of their respective animals.

A crowd gathered, anticipating some fun, and when the judge returned the first, the laugh was uproarious. He led, or rather dragged, at the end of a halter, a mean, bony, rib-staring nag, blind in both eyes, and terrible to behold. But presently Lincoln came along, carrying over his shoulder a carpenter's sawhorse. He solemnly set his horse down, and silently surveyed the judge's animal with a comical look of infinite disgust.

"Well, Judge," he finally said, "this is the first time I ever got the worst of it in a horse-trade."

FLORIDA FREEZE CAUSE OF HEAVY ORANGE SHIPPING

The Florida freeze will result in a decrease of over 50 per cent of the remaining oranges and 25 per cent of the grapefruit and prospects are for heaviest orange shipments of the season during this and the next two weeks was the first hand information given the board of directors of the California Fruit Growers Exchange February 2nd when General Manager Dezell read a telegraphic report just received from H. J. Ramsey, field manager of the Exchange, who was sent to Florida immediately after the freeze.

Mr. Ramsey, who was formerly connected with the United States Department of Agriculture is making a personal inspection trip to all citrus sections of that state before returning to California.

The report to California citrus growers indicates that after two or three more weeks of very heavy shipments, the Florida shipments of both oranges and grapefruit will fall off considerably and that the shipping season will end much sooner than normally.

The Exchange Field Manager's report states that Florida shippers realize that present shipments are too heavy which is in line with previous information received from Florida. However, the continued drought and cold pressure from the growers to realize on as much of their fruit as possible.

Some shippers are working days and nights and Sundays moving frost-free grapefruit and oranges, including Valencia, according to the report. The advantage to the California industry of having early and authentic information of the situation is worth thousands of dollars to California growers. Although California has a plentiful supply of oranges to move the balance of the year, the program will be adjusted to meet the Florida situation for the next few weeks.

Mr. Ramsey wired that some fruit is being picked and shipped from groves on which all the foliage had been killed by the frost and that some of this fruit would undoubtedly be seized by government officials.

In addition to the value of this information for immediate marketing use, perhaps the most important part of Ramsey's trip will be his observations of the effects of the freeze on Florida trees and on next season's crop.

Of special interest to California growers who have weathered a freeze or two themselves are the observations regarding the physical condition of both fruit and trees are reported by Mr. Ramsey. His wire indicates that the oranges show more crystals than California fruit similarly afflicted. Also that the Florida frozen oranges have a water soaked appearance. The grapefruit shows no crystals or drying but has a glazed appearance on the segments.

The trees were dormant from the drought and show little splitting of bark and the wood appears sound and alive, even putting forth new growth in badly frozen areas.

Much uncertainty exists as to next year's crop, according to Mr. Ramsey. The crop will depend upon weather conditions. Another cold spell in Florida would ruin next year's crop and continued drought may cause the bloom to fail and therefore the crop.

Authorities are agreed that present conditions in Florida are paralleled by no previous freeze, in the effect on either fruit or trees. The California citrus official will spend another week or more in Florida studying the situation in greater detail.

When an American Vice Consul at Apia, Samoan Islands, responded to the offer of a box of California's finest Sunkist oranges to the most distant listener in, as a part of a distance contest being conducted by a Southern California broadcasting station, those in charge thought this 4,200 mile reception somewhat of a record in local radio circles.

However, a letter postmarked December 23rd from Thomas Pashby, Morvon, South Canterbury, New Zealand, which is nearer 6,000 miles away, beat out dozens of other radio fans from "near-by" points like the Hawaiian Islands, Alaskan, Canadian cities, and a number of distant eastern cities.

New Zealand, like many far distant markets, is regularly supplied with Sunkist oranges and lemons. Mr. Pashby, who says he has a "five valve set" will receive his box of oranges promptly from the local dealer in his home town just the same as if he were located in Kalamazoo or Walla Walla.

When a demonstration was put on here last February by Mr. Rodda, Henry Bumstead, a 10 year Ontario youth rode the plank 10,660, 100 feet over two miles thus breaking the world record on the plank. The record now stands at 12,410 feet made by a boy in West Springfield, Mass., made on a five inch plank.

FEBRUARY ORANGE MARKET NEEDS CAREFUL HANDLING

That probably the most critical period in the season's marketing program for California oranges is right now, was the statement of Dana C. King, orange sales manager of the California Fruit Growers Exchange on February 7.

"Florida shipped about 1,150 cars of oranges last week, and estimate shipments of 1,300 to 1,400 cars this week, which means that the supply of California and Florida oranges shipped the week ending February 5th total about 2,400 carloads, with a similar quantity in prospect for the week ending the 12th, unless California shippers change their ideas," said Mr. King. "These figures exceed those of previous years by several hundred cars. Last year total shipments for the first week in February amounted to 1,266 cars, and for the second week 1,599 cars."

The heavy shipments from Florida reach eastern markets in five to six days, about a week earlier than shipments from California made at the same time, according to Mr. King.

Earlier advice of extreme Florida shipments from Field Manager Ramsey of the Exchange, who was sent to Florida to report the situation, are being borne out by later reports from Florida shippers. The consensus of opinion in Florida seems to be that after the very heavy movement during the week ending February 12th, shipments will rapidly decline. The unprecedented drought in Florida is causing heavy dropping of much of the frost free fruit left on the trees, so that they are unable to hold back orange shipments.

"It is to both California's and Florida's advantage for us to keep supplies more nearly in line with consuming demand," said Mr. King. "Even with the great loss of shipments from Florida, the total supply of oranges for the balance of the season will be about comparable with that of last year. Recognizing our large crop in California, we still must all realize that the surest way to reduce returns on it is to force us to sell it 'under pressure' instead of keeping the supply just in line with the demand, which manner of distribution has brought gratifying results on the large quantities of California oranges moved so far this season."

Another angle of the situation just at this season of the year brought out by Mr. King is the interference of cold weather with normal demand and distribution. For instance no sale in New York one day last week because of extreme cold meant a loss in sales which can never be entirely regained.

Many of us familiar with weather conditions in the middle west and east know that this is the season when there may be no local shipments of perishable fruits for three or four days or a week on account of extreme cold, which means greatly lowered consumption of oranges in that section. And because the family had no orange juice for breakfast for a week doesn't mean that they will drink two glasses each when the regular supply is renewed.

Excellent demand for California oranges continues, and prevailing prices have been satisfactory enough to encourage heavy shipments, but Mr. King feels strongly that California shippers will be confronted with a much less desirable market unless supplies are kept within proper limits for the next few weeks.

"To provide for the marketing of all citrus fruits at the lowest possible cost under uniform methods," was declared to be the purpose of the California Fruit

FORMER MEANING OF FEBRUARY 14TH IS EXPLAINED

Valentine's Day has always been observed in somewhat the same way—by sending cards with sentimental or comic verses upon them to an adored one. However, we find that many queer superstitions were prevalent concerning Valentine's Day in the time of Charles II.

At that time it was customary for a group of single ladies and young bachelors to get together to draw names. The young man would have as his Valentine the young lady whose name he drew. These two would go together until Valentine's season was over. The young man would give the young lady a gift of appreciation and often they would fall in love.

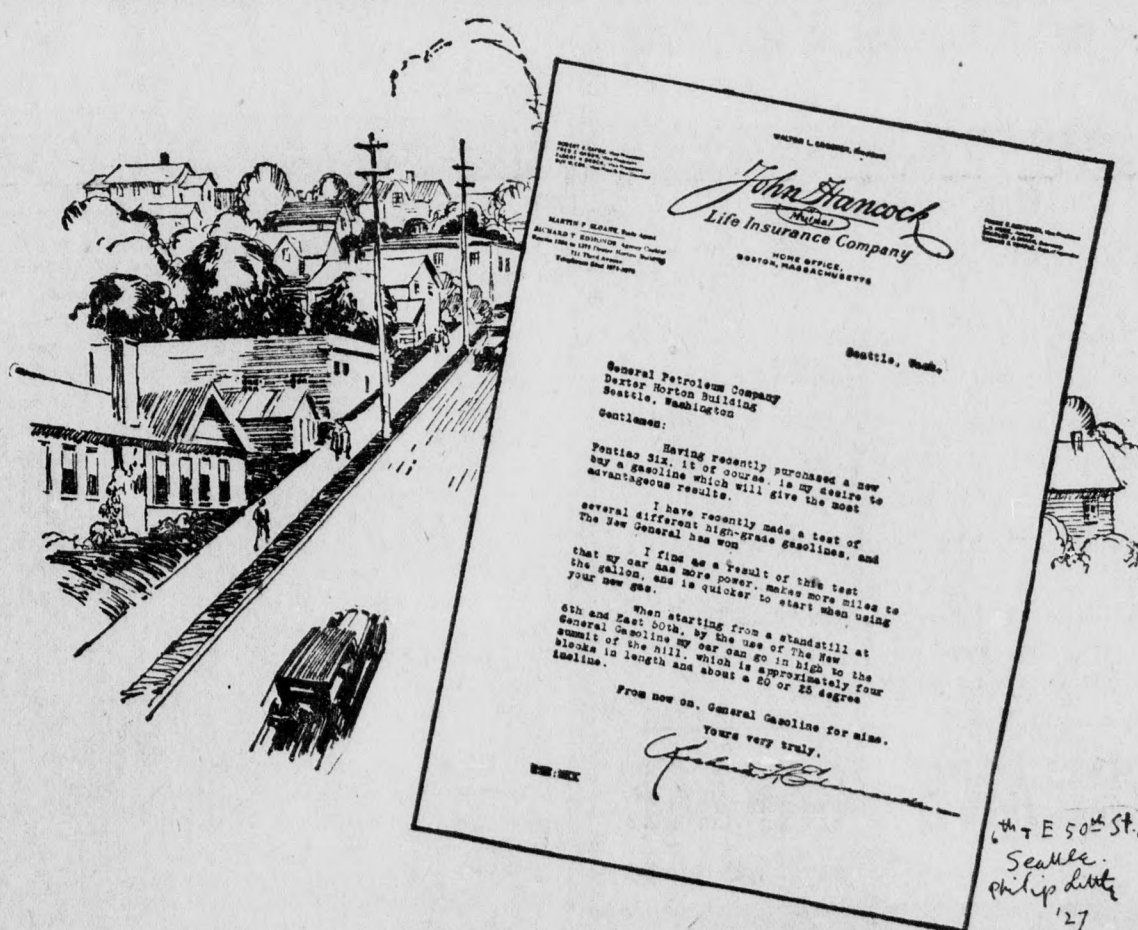

The young ladies of that time were especially interested in Valentines Day. They believed that the first man they met on that day was fated to be their husband; therefore they took pains to see that they met the right one. It was also believed that if a young lady wrote the names of several young men on separate pieces of paper, rolled them in clay and dropped them in the water, the name to rise to the surface first was her future husband.

Grower's Exchange at its first meeting in April, 1893.

Last year the Exchange marketed over 20,000,000 boxes of citrus fruits at a cost of 2.48 per cent of the delivered value, a figure well below the selling expense of any other marketing method.

Today, few if any persons will deny that the purpose for which the Exchange was founded 34 years ago have been more than realized.

Up difficult hill for first time with the new and greater

GENERAL GASOLINE

These are the experiences that count. Up a hill in high that you have never been able to make before—a noticeable increase in gas-miles—old fuel knocks eliminated.

Thousands of motorists all over the Coast have been getting amazing results with the new and greater General Gasoline. Here's why!

The new General Gasoline is highly volatile but perfectly balanced. That means more gas-miles, and at the same time more power.

No acids or sulphur. That means a clean motor—less carbon and no fouled spark plugs.

This greater General Gasoline costs no more. It's worth a premium. Independent Dealers everywhere serve it. Remember—"It's the end of the run that counts." Use Parabase motor oils. For Fords use Para4rd. Probably you too have had some unusual experience with the new General Gasoline. Write us about it. General Petroleum Corporation, 701 Matson Building, San Francisco.

Behold, my pet, my composing-stick, with every space and point in place—just watch me do the trick! And this I do because 'tis you alone for whom I pine; I wish to make for your sweet sake, a printer's valentine. Your "make-ups" neat from head to feet; your cheeks are peaches ripe; no artist yet has ever set for Love so clean a "type". Come, then, to me, and I will be your loyal knight and brave; I'll even try to eat your "pi" and be your "galley"-slave. My speech is kind, as you will find—I use no harsh retorts nor words uncouth, because, for sooth, I'm never "out of sorts". Pray hesitate no more to mate, nor hold from me aloof; my heart is all your own—just call upon me for the "proof". I shall not roam a-way from home, with other girls to sup; I'll not refuse, is you so choose, to let you "look me up". You are the girl I call my "pearl"—my "diamond"; and you, in any "case", are fair of "face", in "old style" or in "new". As violet ink oft makes me think of corresponding eyes, so when in "gold" I print, behold, I know you're just "size". So put away your doubt, and say you'll be my Valentine. Oh, do not "kill" the hopes that fill this inky heart of mine! Love waits to "feed" the press—you need say nothing more than, "Yes"! I end my rhyme because it's time to "send your form to press!"

mothers, wives and sweethearts of the men who devote their time, thought and energy to the building of this community served it, added a touch of community spirit and made the two hundred present feel perfectly at home.

President L. N. Kirk of the Chamber of Commerce first reviewed the year's work and then asked O. E. Atwood to tell of the plan for systematic tree planting. Mr. Atwood's report will be found in full in another column. Gene Grier, county supervisor, was introduced by President Kirk as the toastmaster for the evening, and it was a happy vein that Mr. Grier presided, following the schedule through and bringing the meeting to a close at a seasonable hour.

Guests from out of town were introduced by the toastmaster and each spoke briefly. Among those who spoke were: Arthur Brown, president of the Orange Show and Managing Editor of the San Bernardino Evening Telegram; Royal Mack, Secretary National Orange Show; Clyde Houston of the Edison Company and president of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce; Miss Ackermann, secretary of the Claremont Chamber of Commerce; Mayor Parks of Pomona; B. W. Spencer, secretary of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce; Gordon Billings of the Alta Loma Service Club.

F. H. Manker, president of the Arrow Route Association, spoke briefly of the work of Mr. Pomeroy and Mr. Grier in getting the Arrow Route from San Bernardino to Los Angeles completed.

"Jim" Sands brought to the meeting a bit of cheer. He was introduced as of the Pacific Electric and before proceeding he corrected the toastmaster by stating he was of the Southern Pacific and not ashamed of its stepchild the Pacific Electric.

In a series of amusing stories Mr. Sands proved that laughs add to the fullness of the evening. In concluding his part of the program he graphically described the negro prize fighter who was "stopping the blows" of his opponent and when the referee said "I'll count ten if you don't get up," the would-be idol of the ring replied, "Count to a million if you want to, I'm tired and I got a headache."

Mrs. A. J. Nielson, accompanied by Mrs. Earl Johnson, presented two vocal numbers and many felt as the speaker of the evening, Hugh Pomeroy, did, when he said "Such music as I have listened to was worth my coming the entire distance, for its seldom in these days that we are privileged to listen to selections as given here tonight."

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. David Bradford, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Manley, J. F. Sawyer, B. E. Sawyer, Caroline Vermilion, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. W. Heinicke, Mr. and Mrs. W. Under the direction of the Beginner's Department of the Church school beautiful little children will distribute Valentines to all who attend this service. The church will be decorated by Miss Ethel Brown and Mr. Walter Hastings and special music will be rendered by the Junior Choir, in keeping with the occasion.

This service will be unique.

The pastor is quoted as inviting the public in the following way: "Is it not good to set aside a day dedicated to all the sweets of life? Is it not a mistake that we are losing our grasp on a day that keeps our hearts young and appreciative of romance and sentiment? Let us, in the church, frame our hearts one day each year into the semblance of romantic love, and love will come and give reality to the semblance. Hail to thy returning festival old Bishop Valentine! Immortal go-between! Who and what manner of person art thou but a name typifying the restless principle which impels poor humans to seek perfection in union. Mysterious personage! There is no other mitred father in the calendar. Thou comest attended with thousands and ten thousands of little loves and the air is brushed with the hiss of rustling wings.

This and That

looks inviting, but when the constructive days have passed and we near the sunny side and feel ourselves on the downgrade—just to sit down and review the old times, that's real joy that youth doesn't know a thing about.

Wondering

Influence and surroundings enter in when it comes to rearing boys. Right now we have before us eight boys who employed their time and energy along the wrong line. Being filled with youthful exuberance, these boys had to have something by which that energy could be used up. Lacking a guiding hand they used their energy throwing stones at bee hives, the winner of the game being he who escaped with the fewest stings.

We have in Upland a Y. M. C. A. and in considering the experience of these boys and their parents, which is at best rather unfortunate and embarrassing, one wonders if the parents had encouraged these boys in taking an interest in the work of the Y. M. C. A. would the smashing of that apiary occurred.

Boy building is important but the Y. M. C. A. cannot accomplish the entire structure forming without the co-operation of the parents. The local Y. M. C. A. has many interesting evening programs and if your boy hasn't something to take up his time during his spare moments he's bound to find something to do and may stumble into trouble as these eight boys did. The best thing for any American boy is work. Not too much, but enough to indicate to him that life is worth while and although none of us are exactly to blame for our being here, we must make our being here of some value along some particular line of endeavor.

A boy with nothing on his mind and nothing to do tires of the dullness of his existence and in endeavoring to make life more interesting he sometimes selects the wrong program. Our local Y. M. C. A. can help him with his program if his parents will encourage him to get acquainted with the Y. M. C. A. members.

J. C. ORATORS IN CLOSE CONTEST ON ABE LINCOLN

Vesta Morrison, Nellie Toplift, and Raymond Wilson were the contestants in the annual J. C. Lincoln Memorial contest, which was held in a general assembly of both high school and Junior College this morning.

The orations of the respective speakers were as follows: "Lincoln and the Building of a Nation," "Abraham Lincoln and Prohibition," and "Lincoln, the Man of the Hour."

This contest is provided for by money given by Mr. Hill and Mr. Booth, who have felt that the average student did not know enough about the "Great Emancipator."

IN THE SHADOW

Mrs. Abbie Burch Durfee passed away February 10th at her home, 535 East D street, Ontario, at the age of 49 years, 11 months and eight days.

Mrs. Durfee was a native of California and had lived in Ontario for the past nine years and was an instructor of English at Chaffey. She is survived by her husband, U. G. Durfee, two daughters Lucile E. and Dorothy L. and one son Marian, who is attending the University of Arizona.

Funeral services will be held at the Bethel Congregational Church Saturday at 12:30 o'clock, with the Rev. Ernest Day of Whittier, in charge. Interment in Bellevue Cemetery.
